HAVANA RACING RESUMED

Close and Thrilling Finishes Delight Crowd at Oriental Park.

Col. Taylor Beaten by Different Eyes in a Fast and Hard Fought Race.

HAVANA, Cuba, December 9.—Racing enthusiasts in large numbers were present at Oriental Park this afternoon to witness the resumption of their favorite sport after a layoff of two days. They found the track at its best, fast and safe, with the weather ideal for outdoor sport. With such conditions prevailing it was only natural for them to anticipate some interesting racing. Nor were they disappointed. While there were a number of upsets and surprises, the majority of the races were hard fought and the finishes so close that the winners were in doubt until the official placing was announced. This was particularly true in the main race of the afternoon, the West Indies Handicap. The smallest of margins separated the first three at the finish and only the judges could part them. Col. Taylor set a terrific pace, forced to the limit by the lightly-weighted Different Eyes. The latter caught Col. Taylor when straightened out in the stretch, and it was nip and tuck from thereon. The two raced like a team through the last eighth, Different Eyes finally getting his head in front and securing the decision by that margin. In the meanwhile Cromwell had never been far out of it, but was cut off attempting to come through on the inside at the eighth post, forcing his rider to take to the outside, where he finished fast and less than a half length behind the first two. It was a grand finish to one of the fastest and most stubbornly contested races of the meeting, arousing the enthusiasm of the big crowd to its highest pitch. Diffent Eyes' victory was the first of the season for the stable of C. A. Stoneham, one of the new owners of the Oriental Park track.

Another thrilling finish came in the final race, Manokin just outlasting Crystal Day, with Bill Hunley at the latter's heels. Manokin forced the pace throughout, but was tiring at the end, while Crystal Day, closing fast and gaining with every stride, almost got up.

Old Hocnir again proved a disappointment to his many admirers when he finished third to Berlin and Baby Cal in the mile and a sixteenth race, run as the fifth. While Hocnir ran well throughout, he failed to make any impression on Berlin, which held sway all the way. At the end Baby Cal outgamed Hocnir for third money.

The initial dash of the afternoon fell to the Plaudit filly Rora. She dashed into the lead with the rise of the barrier, and showing good speed throughout held her advantage to the end. Martin took no chances and rode her out through the last sixteenth when Railbird threatened.

CARMODY MAKES GOOD IMPRESSION.

J. Carmody, the apprentice, who rode for Tom Welch at New York, had his second mount at the meeting on Riverside. He showed well in getting his mount off with the leaders, which after making all the pace beat out Jack Healey and Driffield in a driving finish. The boy looks like a good riding prospect. Penalver, another apprentice, won his maiden race a few days ago on the same horse.

Jockeys J. P. Ryan, Charlie Grey and F. Weiner were arrivals from Maryland this afternoon. B. Rice and Frank McGinty also got in this morning.

Jockey Chiavetta was suspended for five days for crowding at the first turn in the last race while astride Manokin, which won in a terrific finish.

The management received advices today from F. J. Nolan, owner of the Beverwyck Stable, that he was shipping eight horses due to arrive at Oriental Park the latter part of this week. They include Old Koenig and Ima Frank, two of the good sprinters which raced at New York in the fall; Nolawn, Scrub Lady, All Aglow, Toronado, The Trump and a yearling named Royal Green. The shipment is coming in charge of Tom O'Brien. The stable will be a most valuable addition to the number now here. It will be the first time in many years that Mr. Nolan has raced horses at a winter meeting. Mr. Nolan is one of the best known sportsmen in the United States. His father also raced many high-class horses, including the steeplechase horse Bourke Cockran, which horse was considered one of the best jumpers of his day.

Alvert Gascoigne has arrived with the horses Picker, Stealer and Pleasing Picture. He also brought three yearlings.

W. C. Daly also arrived with Rockport and Northern Belle, while A. Neal got in with Little Ed.

Col. Jose de Estrampes purchased from the Jamaica Stable the useful sprinter Alvord. The horse will continue to be trained by Hal Booker.

CURRENT NOTES OF THE TURF

Thoroughbred racing is one of the winter attractions at Lakewood, N. J.

T. J. Pendergast is the biggest money winner at Jefferson Park to date, his horses having won $2,025.

James F. O'Hara, manager of the Bowie course, and interested with G. D. Bryan, Jr., in racing properties, is an arrival for the Jefferson Park meeting.

Since the opening of the Jefferson Park meeting on Thanksgiving day to date eighty-five jockeys have accepted mounts at that track. Additions are being made to that number daily.

The young apprentice rider F. Coltiletti is leading the jockeys at Jefferson Park, having ridden nine winners since the meeting opened, two more than H. Lunsford, his nearest rival.

FUTURITY FOR 1922 CLOSES JANUARY 3

NEW YORK, N. Y., December 9.—The Futurity for 1922, which is to be closed January 3, will be the first closing of the most prized of Futuritys in which only entire colts and fillies are eligible. This will hardly have any effect on the entry lst, closing as it does for mares. For that running the Westchester Racing Association has guaranteed a value of $30,000, and of this amount $1,750 goes to the breeders. A. McL. Earlocker, will leave December 15 for a tour of the different Kentucky farms in the interest of the stake.

VALUE OF THOROUGHBRED BREEDING

Recognized by European Governments During the Darkest Days of the Great World War.

NEW YORK, N. Y., December 9.—At no time in the course of the last five years, not even while the great war was at its height, did the central empires stop the racing of thoroughbred horses. The great tracks of Hamburg, Budapest, Vienna and Berlin were the scenes of brilliant gatherings, even when the Grand Duke Nicholas was threatening East Prussia with invasion and Brusilof was on the edge of the plains of Hungary with his wild Cossack riders. At no time during the course of the great war were American and English trainers and jockeys, who had been caught by the declaration of war in Germany and Austria-Hungary and were unable to obtain passports, interned. They were permitted by governments their governments were seeking to destroy to pursue their accustomed callings unmolested and unrestrained.

To a certain extent racing was curtailed in Great Britain during the first two years of the great war. The use of the famous Epsom Downs course as a resting place for convalescing soldiers necessitated the running of the famous Epsom Derby at Newmarket in 1914, 1915, 1916, 1917 and 1918. The preoccupation of the sportsmen of Great Britain in the business of war caused them, to a certain extent, to neglect the thoroughbred sales of 1915, 1916 and 1917 and Americans were enabled to slip in and buy up a lot of high-class stallions and mares with which to enrich the American thoroughbred industry.

Of the great nations participating in the great war France alone felt the necessity of stopping horse racing. Threatened with utter destruction in a flood of Teutonic barbarism France had to send to the fighting lines on the Marne, the Somme, the Aisne about Verdun, in the Vosges every male Frenchman capable of bearing arms. Back of the fighting lines she had to mobilize the elderly men with the women and children for the imperative work of making munitions.

Upon France alone fell the burden of resisting the German tide for upward of two years. Throughout the course of the war speed tests were held at the great French tracks, but not as public spectacles. But there was no letting down of the bars as regards the exportation from France of thoroughbred blood any time during the war. As a special consideration citizens of the United States, a country from which the French from the very beginning of the war were drawing enormous quantities of military material, who had thoroughbred studs in France, such men as John Sanford of Amsterdam, Major August Belmont, Joseph E. Widener and Thomas P. Thorne, were permitted when transportation was available to ship to the United States a limited number of thoroughbred yearlings. No matured thoroughbred stallions or mares were allowed to leave the country, whether their owners were Frenchmen or outlanders.

With the signing of the armistice France and England resumed racing with characteristic enthusiasm. The attendance at the race tracks about Paris has been greater this season than in any for the period of a half dozen years preceding the outbreak of the great war. The crowds that witnessed the running of the Derby, the Oaks, the Ascot Gold Cup, the St. Leger, etc., in Great Britain were greater by the thousands than the greatest of ante-bellum race track gatherings.

RACING AND BREEDING INDISPENSABLE.

In France and Great Britain the patronage of horse racing by the public has the highest government encouragement now as the support of racing had in Germany and Austria-Hungary even through the dark months when human beings were finding it difficult to obtain nourishing food. France and England recognize today as Germany and Austria-Hungary have for many days the indispensability of thoroughbred blood to national defense and necessity of thoroughbred horse racing for the maintenance at its highest efficiency of thoroughbred blood.

For upward of seventy years previous to the beginning of the great war the military governments of Continental Europe had been maintaining thoroughbred studs for the production of military horses, an earlier century of experimentation having demonstrated to the satisfaction of experts that it was the horse that boasted of the greatest proportion of thoroughbred blood that showed the highest efficiency in military service, whether as a trooper's mount, an artillery horse or a part of the transport service. The great war had not progressed two years before British and French specialists discovered that the life of the pure thoroughbred under the grueling conditions of war, independently of casualties, was twenty-five days, while that of the three-quarter blood was twenty to twenty-two, of the half-bred seventeen, of the trotter fourteen and of the lesser breeds of horses of no particular breed five to seven.

Previous to the war of the nations the British government had left the production of horses for the army to private enterprises. The British had merely muddled along as is their habit in most things. The difficulty the war office experienced in equipping with suitable horses the cavalry, transport and artillery services of the tremendous armies that were being assembled in France in 1916 and 1917 under Haig convinced the rulers of the British Empire that the old haphazard scheme would not answer in future. The British parliament was therefore constrained to accept the 1917 Major Hall Walker's generous offer of his entire thoroughbred stud as the nucleus of a great imperial military horse breeding establishment, and to employ Lord Lonsdale to manage and race the produce of that establishment on the tracks of Great Britain for purposes of elimination as the imperial German government had employed various scions of German royalty to race the produce of the national studs of Graditz and Trekennen for thirty-five or forty years before the outbreak of the great war.

The munificence of Major Walker's gift to his country will be understood when it is realized that his stud had been taxed on a valuation of upward of $3,000,000. Now that the war is over parliament is beginning to appropriate vast sums annually for the maintenance of this imperial horse breeding establishment after the manner such establishments had been maintained in France, Germany, Austria-Hungary and Italy for half a century before the German invasion of Belgium.

To promote the quick production of quantities of horses of thoroughbred, three-quarter bred and half-bred types this establishment is preparing to give direct support to the Canadian National Bureau of Breeding, which was established some seven or eight years prior to 1914, and which supplied the Canadian and British forces with thousands of splendid half-breds, and to create subsidiary branches in Australia, New Zealand, South Africa and India.

SUN BRIAR IS PERMANENTLY RETIRED

NEW YORK, N. Y., December 9.—According to trainer J. Simon Healey, who has succeeded Henry McDaniel as trainer of the W. S. Kilmer racing establishment, it is the present intention of Mr. Kilmer to permanently retire Sun Briar to the stud. Exterminator, one of the best handicap horses seen on the American turf in many a year, will be the chief reliance of the Kilmer stable next year.

ONE OF FIRST QUESTIONS OF A NOVICE

What Is a Thoroughbred?—An Old Turfman Answers and Goes Into Details.

NEW YORK, N. Y., December 9.—The crowds that witnessed the racing over the various New York and Maryland tracks this year were wonderful to behold. Among the great gatherings were many who had never been on a race track before. The old-timers were lost in the big crowd of new enthusiasts, many of whom knew little or less about horses, racing and anything pertaining to that great outdoor sport.

Many the questions asked of old turfmen. The question most asked by the novice was "What is a thoroughbred?" To such a query a horseman of high standing and well versed in the lore of the turf replied that when applied to horses the term thoroughbred is understood to mean an animal of a breed that has been bred in England for generations to race at the running gait. Horses were raced in England for at least six hundred years, and probably considerable more than that, before the thoroughbred breed was established. During all those years the breeders of race horses in England had doubtless endeavored to improve the speed and other race-winning qualities of their racing stock by careful selections of sires and dams of demonstrated merit.

The eminent English writer J. H. Walsh (Stonehenge), author of the valuable standard work, "The Horse in the Stable and the Field," stated that the breed of race horses known as thoroughbred was established about 1750. The foundation stock from which this breed was created, as stated by Stonehenge, was as follows:

First—Native mares used for racing and bred from Spanish and English strains, the former most probably descended from the Barbs and Morocco.

Second—Markham's Arabian, imported in the time of James the First, and most probably there is not now the slightest strain of his blood extant.

Third—Place's White Turk, extensively used, and to him most of our best horses can be traced through Matchem.

Fourth—The three Turks, brought over from the siege of Vienna in 1684.

Fifth—The royal mares imported by Charles the Second, who sent his "Master of the Horse to the Levant" especially to procure them. These are also mentioned in all the best pedigrees.

TWO CLASSES OF THOROUGHBREDS.

There are two classes of thoroughbreds, one of which includes only such descendants of King Charles' royal mares as were by pure Barb, Arabian or Turk stallions, without the admixture of other blood; while the other class includes animals that are direct descendants in the paternal line of the first-class and have inherited not less than five unbroken crosses in the maternal line of the thoroughbred of the first class. As we understand it, all such animals, regardless of their speed ability or other race-winning qualities, were eligible to registration as thoroughbred in the old English Stud Book and no distinction was made there between the two classes above named.

All horses are thoroughbred whose sires and dams trace in every line to animals that are registered in the English Stud Book, whether they are clean-cut and show quality or not.

The thoroughbred horse of America is a descendant of the English thoroughbred. There were three horses to one or the other of which the English thoroughbred is largely indebted for his most valuable qualities. They were Byerly Turk, Darley Arabian and Godolphin Arabian, all of which were undoubtedly pure-bred horses of the desert. Most of the best thoroughbreds of the present time are descendants of English Eclipse, Matchem or King Herod. Eclipse was a direct descendant in the paternal line of Darley Arabian; Matchem of Godolphin Arabian and Herod of Byerly Turk. The dam of Herod was in-bred to Darley Arabian through Flying Childers. The dam of Matchem was by Croft's Partner, a son of Jigg, by Byerly Turk, and the dam of Eclipse was by Regulus, a son of Godolphin Arabian.

MORE RAIN AT JEFFERSON

But the Racing Proves Good and Five Favorites Win.

Sans Peur II. an Easy Victor in Main Race of Day—Wida and Garner on Two Winners.

NEW ORLEANS, La., December 9.—Jefferson Park was not as lucky today in escaping the tropical rain, for it caught the full force of the storm that has been prevailing intermittently in these parts. The downpour caused the course to become a circular lane of deep mud, enhancing the chances of those best in this style of going. Because of the changed track conditions withdrawals were plentiful from the different dashes, but good sport was the order notwithstanding. The talent was again in rare form, and all the winners came in for extensive consideration. The victories by five favorites was additionally ruinous for the layers.

There were only three starters in the feature race, a handicap at a mile and seventy yards, due to the absence of War Mask, which was permitted to be absent from the race on account of having run away two miles in a work-out yesterday. The race developed a betting tilt between the supporters of Sans Peur II. and Ballet Dancer II., with Sans Peur II. turning up an easy winner after having led for the entire race.

Ballet Dancer II. made a game effort to wear the leader down just before reacing the stretch, but in the last eighth she tired and Sans Peur II. came home an easy victor. Flyaway, the other starter, came back to the scales with a decided limp.

Speedster, locally owned, graduated from the maiden ranks in the initial race and was supported with rare confidence. His task was an easy one, for he took the lead when called on and won decisively from Bob Baker and Revolution.

Diamond Girl proved a disappointment again when she failed badly in the second race, the purse here going to Burgoyne, which ran for his new owner, P. Clausen, for the first time. Ablaze gave the winner a stout argument for five-eighths, but thereafter had to do his best to retain second place from the fast coming Anticipate.

Sungold, another recently claimed one and making his first start in the colors of his new owner, won the third race from Miss Wright and Kultur and his victory did not give the layers much respite..

Sedgegrass, a newcomer here, was the medium for a coup in the fourth race and won easily from Lonely and Peggy C.

LUTHER PLACED ON PROBATION.

Parrish, which has been racing consistently, just managed to stagger in a winner by a close margin over Counterbalance and Pleasureville. There came near being a bad fall in this race at the start when Luther caromed against several. He is a notorious bad post actor and after the finish the stewards announced that hereafter he would be placed on the outside of the field and in the event that he does not show more tractability he will be barred from starting.

The failure of the transfer van to the track from the Fair Grounds in time caused several racers to miss their engagements.

L. A. Broaddus claimed Counterbalance after his defeat for $1,000 and Diamond Girl was claimed by W. Carr for $1,500.

Although it was positively known the track would be in bad order for tomorrow's racing, it did not result in any curtailment of entries for tomorrow's card, and an excess number is progammed in most of the dashes and in addition fifty-one were thrown out.

Jockeys Mack Garner and S. Wida each won two races today. Wida, who is one of the lightest apprentice riders here, had not shown much previously, although he came here with a fair reputation.

The weather man was not as kind to Jefferson Park today as on Monday, when he made a "dividing line" for the rain, allowing the Shrewsbury course to escape it. He not only sent plenty of moisture to make the oval muddy, but he dispensed some more during the running of the races.

Supt. Anthony Rouprich said that when the track dries out now it will be faster than ever, as the rain served to pack the new soil tight.
